

Gin's Story

If I could give a million stars I would!

My family and I became the owners of our dog, Gin, when she was already older. Gin was set in her ways and needed to learn some manners. I guess she came with all of the behaviors that you don't really want in a dog. She pulled on her leash, she wouldn't come when we called her. She basically lacked any obedience skills. After one lesson with Eddie she walked nicely on a leash, she could do sit on command, and she was learning heel. We are looking forward to continuing our lessons and eventually being able to train her and nonverbal commands. Eddie's patience with our girl has made for a much happier dog and much happier owners. We plan to continue with her training. She is such a good dog and we're hoping to eventually get her into some agility training.
